Preface

In 2013, Chinese President Xi Jinping first proposed the Belt and Road Initiative (the Initiative) during his visits to Central Asian countries. Based on joint efforts and mutual benefits, the Initiative called for policy coordination, facilities connectivity, unimpeded trade, financial integration and people-to-people bonds to enhance multilateral cooperation mechanism and promote regional development for the good of all.

2000 years ago, our Chinese ancestors crossed deserts, mountains and fields and opened up a land-based Silk Road that ran from China in the east to Europe in the west. In addition to facilitating economic and trade exchanges, the Silk Road opened doors between the Chinese civilization and other countries in Asia and Europe. During the Tang, Song and Ming dynasties, merchants and adventurers even crossed the seas and established sea routes that linked up China in the north to countries in its south.

In the age of transformation, technological advancement and economic globalization, we are at the crossroads of both innovation and challenges. The rich-poor divide, the food crisis, population expansion, and financial difficulties are some of the harsh realities facing our world today. How should China position itself internationally? The Belt and Road Initiative proposed by President Xi Jinping is precisely a global solution to these problems as China takes on a more crucial role in the world. It is hoped that with cooperation, trust, sharing and mutual benefits, China and countries along the Belt and Road routes can join hands and build a global community for the human race.

China Exchanges Services Co., Ltd. (CESC) is pleased to be a participant in this project and set a precedent for the industry by collecting information of listed companies participating in the Belt and Road Initiative and compiling a Belt and Road Index to track the Initiative's impact on the capital market. We hope our work can raise market awareness about developments of the Initiative and provide investors with guidance. We also hope we can help listed companies keep track of the latest development of their peers in the Initiative. Bearing in mind the pioneering spirit of our ancestors, CESC will take an active role in this national strategy and contribute its professional expertise. We believe the vision embodied in the Belt and Road Initiative will soon become reality. Let us witness together how the journey goes.

Summary

The main purposes of this report are to evaluate the development of the Belt and Road Initiative through listed companies. The analysis would help investors to identify capital market opportunities brought by the Initiative, and explore new financial service models. First of all, with the help of comprehensive data of listed companies, we can discover the characteristics and trends of economic activities in the Initiative by observing the changing facet of industries and company operations. Second, the economic opportunities brought by the Initiative will eventually turn into mutually beneficial business models, which will inevitably lead to market, product and service innovations, thereby stimulating the emergence of representative companies. The excavation of capital market investment opportunities in the Initiative is in line with the goal of facilitating the growth of the real economy with the support of financial market. Third, we hope this data collection event can encourage listed companies to actively participate in the Initiative and disclose their participation so as to raise public awareness of the Initiative.

Exclusive Data collected from the three Exchanges

With the help of the three shareholders: HKEX, SSE and SZSE (note 1), CESC collected the Belt and Road business data directly from listed companies eligible for the Stock Connect, to compile the Belt and Road index. This will be a pilot for setting up an offshore/cross-border Belt and Road financial ecosystem. This report will summarize and elaborate on these raw data and share with readers some findings that are not embodied in the index.

Six indicators to redefine the Belt and Road

To view Belt and Road activities solely as infrastructure construction may be too one-sided. Based on three quantifiable Priorities out of the “Five Cooperation Priorities” proposed in the “Vision and Actions on Jointly Building Silk Road Economic Belt and 21st-Century Maritime Silk Road”, CESC utilized six indicators to observe and measure listed companies’ participation in the Belt and Road Initiative. Companies with greatest participation will be selected to be included in the index. As China’s economic restructuring and the Initiative advance, it is expected that new economy and innovative companies will be included in the index. The six indicators are defined as:

- o 1) Sales value and 2) Purchase value reflecting companies’ Belt and Road imports and exports, and their sale and purchase amounts in the Belt and Road countries;
- o 3) Construction Contract value reflects the scale of companies’ infrastructure construction projects in the Belt and Road countries;
- o 4) Investment value reflects capital flow and investment opportunities along the Belt & Road; and,
- o 5) Financing / Loan value and 6) Insured value reflect demands for financial services in the Belt and Road Initiative.

Note 1: China Exchanges Services Co., Ltd. (CESC) is a joint venture of Hong Kong Exchanges and Clearing Ltd. (HKEX), Shanghai Stock Exchange (SSE) and Shenzhen Stock Exchange (SZSE).

Based on the above six indicators, industry classifications and national analysis, we have reached the following conclusion:

Industry Analysis - Infrastructure projects replaced energy trading activities

Initially, energy companies play the main role in the Belt and Road sales, purchase and investment projects. However, their market share fell in the past few years, possibly due to the fluctuation of oil prices. On the contrary, the number and business value of infrastructure companies rose swiftly. Infrastructure companies are bound to become the new driving force for the growth of Belt and Road Initiative business.

Although the Belt and Road related industries are customarily seen as energy, raw materials and infrastructure, figures indicate that they are not confined to these sectors. The proportion of other sectors such as consumption, IT and healthcare is rising.

Companies Nature - Private companies followed state-owned enterprises to enter into Belt and Road Initiative business

State-owned enterprises are early supporters of the Belt and Road Initiatives. In 2014, state-owned enterprises accounted for more than 60 per cent of the total sales and investment, and 90 per cent of the purchase and construction contract value. However, the construction projects of non state-owned enterprises are increasing. In 2014-2016, the number of companies and the value of new construction contract doubled, while the value of new investment grew in folds.

Chinese Companies' Overseas Ventures - Chinese companies seeks influence on global finance

Initially, listed companies involved in Belt and Road financing and loan business were mainly overseas commercial banks. But Chinese commercial banks are quickly catching up. Figures show that Chinese state-owned financial institutions are expanding overseas financial business. Non state-owned companies also began to express interest. The Belt and Road Initiative will likely increase China's global financial influence and accelerate the internationalization of Renminbi.

National Analysis - "Win-Win" Cooperation along the Belt and Road

At present, responding companies have business in more than half of the Belt and Road countries. Singapore is their vital partner, and their participation is the highest in Southeast Asia. Middle East accounts for a large proportion of energy purchase activity.

Each Belt and Road country has its own characteristics, for example, strong consumption in Indonesia, Thailand's role as the new manufacturing center, Vietnam's role as the textile and garment manufacturing centre, oil sector dominated by Saudi Arabia etc. Also, the flow of investment capital reflects that listed companies may expand their business to more emerging markets and frontier markets such as Bangladesh, Laos and Egypt.

Participated Listed Companies

Special thanks to the following Stock Connect eligible companies involved in this study, who provided participation data in the “Belt and Road” countries (the company rankings are in no particular order. Some companies participating in this study chose not to disclose the company name).

Company Profile

China Exchanges Services Company Limited (CESC) is a ground-breaking joint venture of Hong Kong Exchanges and Clearing Limited (HKEX), Shanghai Stock Exchange (SSE) and Shenzhen Stock Exchange (SZSE). Established in Hong Kong in 2012, CESC aims to contribute to the healthy development of China's capital markets and the deepening of the three exchanges' links with global investors.

CESC is designed to make contributions to the development of China's capital markets and the internationalisation of the three exchanges. CESC will develop new products, such as index-linked derivatives, and connect the rest of the world to the financial markets in Hong Kong and Mainland China. CESC will develop cross-border indices based on products traded on the three exchanges, develop industry classifications for listed companies, and create information standards and products.

With resources from HKEX, SSE and SZSE in market data, business development and system support, and with the foundation of Mainland China and Hong Kong, CESC aims to be a comprehensive provider of exchange-related services. Relying on strong support from its shareholders, CESC's business started with developing cross-border indices covering the Hong Kong, Shanghai and Shenzhen markets and now includes management of the CESC's Index Series.

Looking forward, depending on market demand, CESC may expand its scope to cover Mainland enterprises listed overseas. Apart from its index business, CESC will develop more cross-border products for trading and will provide information services as well as other exchange services.

The CES Index Series has been used to develop Hong Kong-listed derivatives and Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs), including cross-border equity index products and A-share index products. Such index-linked products give global investors access to Mainland Chinese financial assets, and Mainland Chinese investors access to overseas investment products through established channels like the Qualified Domestic Institutional Investor (QDII), Qualified Foreign Institutional Investor (QFII), RMB Qualified Foreign Institutional Investor (RQFII) schemes and the Stock Connect program.
